interstate commerce violates the common naw against monopoly, violates the State naw against acquiring other corporate property, violates the federal law against combination and monopoly to suppress competition in interstate commerce, is sued in the Massachusetts against the people. And the Attorney General, the highest law officer of the Federal Government, sworn to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution and enforce the laws of Congress, gives his official approval of this legislative compact between the New Haven company and the Massachusetts Legislature to nullify the law of Congress, and declares that it 'expressly' authorizes what Congress has forbidden.

"Mr. President, if the Federal antifust law can be repealed by a State legislature, if the Department of Justice at Washington will hold conferences with and lend countenance to the agents of law-breaking corporations, while they are engaged in lobbying through State legislatures a pretended sanction of their violation of the criminal statutes of the Federal Government, and then by official edict make such State statutes a shield and cover under which the criminal corporations may go unwhipped of justice—if the door of the Federal court may thus be closed in the face of a wronged and outraged public by the Atorney General of the Republican party to get in line?

Declares Arguments Weak.

mere juggler's pawn."

How Law Would Operate,

"Mr. President, if Section 12 had been the law at the time of the occurrences of the events I have detailed, what would have been the result? Under the provisions of that section the New Haven, after making the agreements for consolidation, fearing the anti-trust act, might apply to the court of commerce for an adjudication, as between it and the United States as to whether or not the proposed acquisition of street railways and other properties was in violation of th's section.

"Assuming that this would be a "No representative of any public interest was notified of these changes or given any opportunity to be heard conception."

It would be no greater violation of trust and duty for the Attorney General to enter into such stipulation than was discussed. No inferior court should be discussed. No inferior court should be empowered to render a judgment of estoppel upon questions of such tremendous importance and no attorney general should be empowered to stipulate away the rights of the people for all time."

"This legislation cannot be justified by any theoretical discussion of the distribution of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Nor can it be sustained by arguments concerning the merits of a commerce court. Nor will the public be led to approve it by any contention that in some of its features it represents an advance over existing lay.

Marriage.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 12.—Dutee W. Flint, of Providence, with Philander C. Knox, f., son of the Secretary of State, came here to demonstrate an automobile, and Mr. Knox was the center of a curious throng. He talked of the automobile he is selling, but declined to discuss his recent marriage.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Knox still live in Providence, and have not become reconciled yet with the young man's father. Young Knox was in New York last week and met his brother, however.
